

ROSE HIP

The versatile fruit of the wild rose

The origin of the rose hip could not be verified so far but it is supposed to be originated in Central and South America. For the production of our oils only those rose hips are used which are traditionally collected in late autumn from wild growing bushes in Chile.

Nowadays, the rose hip is also cultivated in various parts of Europe so today it is one of those native fruits with the highest content of vitamin C.

For the production of our Rose Hip Extract Powder the pure rose hip peels of the plant Rosa Canina are used which are rich in vitamins, pectins and fruit acids.

ROSE HIP SEED OIL

From the seeds of rose hip we obtain a high quality oil by the means of cold-pressing or extraction. The result of mechanical pressing is a very intensive colour and an untreated, natural quality. Due to the extraction process we obtain a crude oil which is purified to an almost odorless and light-yellow oil by the method of gentle refining.

The oil obtained from the rose hip seeds is characterized by a specific fatty acid profile with a very high content of unsaturated fatty acids (including Oleic acid, Linoleic acid and Linolenic acid - a total of about 80%).
