Gentle support of the digestion - The effect of the Rhubarb Root

In comparison to Senna Leaves, Senna Fruits or the bark of the Alder Buckthorn, the roots of the Rhubarb are meant to have a quite smooth laxative effect. According to literature this is the result of tannins and anthranoids.

For the production of our Rhubarb Root Extract Powder, only the subterranean parts of the medicinal Rhubarb (Rheum palmatum) are used. The dried and ground drug is extracted with the use of alcohol under strict GMP-conditions and processed into a fine, brown powder with a characteristic bitter taste by the very gentle method of vacuum belt-drying. This extract powder does not contain a carrier substance.
